Low Rank Software; Rank Total; Jobs; Total Jobs.] We note that the single-injury rule adopted in Hartman also is not applicable in this case, as Ms. Goenner's reason for discontinuing her employment was related to the July 30 incident. We also note that unlike the defendant in this case, the defendant in Nunn did not request a hearing on the motion for a new trial and, instead, proceeded to a new trial after the jury returned a general verdict. [5] Thus, we deem the appropriate analysis to be whether Ms. Goenner's injuries arising from the July 30 accident are a divisible portion of a single injury, or whether the injuries resulting from the two accidents are separate "items" constituting a single incident for purposes of recovery.
